

British Columbia Securities Commission

Complaint Form

Once you have determined that the British Columbia Securities Commission (the BCSC) is the jurisdiction for your complaint, use this form to complain to us about a company or individual that you believe has violated the securities laws of British Columbia.

The BCSC collects the information on this form to determine what, if any, action it can take. The BCSC treats all complaints it receives in confidence. The information you provide will only be used in accordance with the BCSC's duties and powers, as described in the British Columbia Securities Act. Any information that you provide will not be disseminated to any third party without your permission, except as required or authorized by law.

Review the InvestRight File a complaint section to find out how to make a complaint and the options you have for resolving it. Our guide to filling out the complaint form offers additional information about each section of the form.

What happens now?

Thank you for telling us about your complaint. We will contact you to confirm that we have received it.

We use the information you provide in the complaint form to determine what action, if any, we should take. We will also determine if your complaint should be re-directed to another agency.

In some cases, we cannot take any action on a complaint because of our statutory six-year limitation period

If we determine that we should conduct a detailed review of your complaint, you will receive a letter with contact details for the person assigned to assess your complaint. You may contact this person to discuss any further questions, comments or concerns, or to provide additional or new information relevant to your complaint. Please understand that the contact person is unable to discuss with you any details of an investigation prior to its conclusion. We take this precaution to ensure that we do not divulge any information that may jeopardize an investigation. Once an investigation is complete, and we have taken appropriate action, we will inform you of the outcome.
